

Update Covid-19 shipping situation

China: Due to the fact that flights to and from China are still restricted, there is a certain shortage in loading capacities, which, however, only partially leads to delays in shipping, but in particular to an explosion in freight prices.

India: In contrast to China, the shipping of goods from India is very limited and is concentrated exclusively on cargo flights. However, the shortage are not only in the flights offered, but especially in overland transport and in the official procedures (customs, chambers of commerce, etc.). Therefore, it is not enough to have booked a flight, but to be able to take the shipment to the airport and have it processed there.

Italy: Despite the drastic measures for the population, the national transport system works for the most part without major problems, even if there may be short-term bottlenecks for drivers or vehicles. Transports to Switzerland are also handled in Chiasso without significant disruption. However, there are some restrictions for airfreight shipments, which can sometimes be due to the regulations of the receiving countries or the airlines.

Stay well!
